The Commonwealth Fund Fellowship in Minority Health Policy at Harvard University

PREPARING TOMORROW’S LEADERS IN HEALTH 2022/2023
Based at Harvard Medical School, the Commonwealth Fund Fellowship in Minority Health Policy at Harvard University is a one-year, full-time, academic degree-granting program designed to prepare physicians, particularly physicians from groups underrepresented in medicine, to become leaders who improve the health of disadvantaged and vulnerable populations through transforming healthcare delivery systems and promoting innovation in policies, practices and programs that address health equity and the social determinants of health. Fellows will complete academic work leading to a Master of Public Health degree at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health or a Master of Public Administration at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government. The program incorporates the critical skills taught in schools of public health, government, business, and dental medicine with supervised practicum, shadowing, mentorship, leadership forums and seminar series conducted by Harvard senior faculty and nationally recognized leaders in healthcare delivery systems and public policy.

Up to five one-year, degree-granting fellowships will be awarded per year. Each fellowship provides: $60,000 one-year stipend, full tuition, health insurance, books, fellowship travel and other program related expenses, including financial assistance for a practicum project.
The Commonwealth Fund Fellowship in Minority Health Policy at Harvard University welcomed its inaugural class in 1996. To date, 150 fellows have been trained, including those funded by the California Endowment Scholars Program and the Oral Health Fellowship Program (funded by The California Endowment, HRSA, the Dental Service of Massachusetts/Delta Dental Plan and Harvard School of Dental Medicine).

67% have been invited for interviews on TV, radio and newsprint to discuss public health and minority health issues.

72% have published their research work in peer-reviewed journals. Between 1997 and 2021, approximately 1646 peer-reviewed articles, book chapters and other forms of publication have been published.

100% engaged in policy, research and/or service delivery related to minority health and vulnerable populations.

79% have held academic appointments at schools of public health and/or medicine.

26 YEARS OF FELLOWSHIP
1996-2021
THE COMMONWEALTH FUND FELLOWS’ EXPERIENCES AT HARVARD

Leadership & Policy Training

“The Commonwealth Fund Fellowship was a career altering experience. The one-year journey taught me how to be a critical thinker and how to ask the most pertinent questions. I learned about public health issues, leadership skills, and health disparities. I returned to clinical work as a public health practitioner with the goals of bringing about social change to improve women’s health.”

Nawal Nour, MD, MPH – 1999
Chair, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology; Director, African Women’s Health Center, Brigham and Women’s Hospital; Kate Macy Ladd Professorship, Harvard Medical School

“The Fellowship was an incredible, transformative experience that changed my career trajectory forever. Prior to the fellowship I had little understanding of the inner workings of leadership, minority health, and health policy. After my fellowship training, I felt equipped to create a path focused on leading efforts to address racial/ethnic disparities in health and health care.”

Joseph Betancourt, MD, MPH – 1998
Senior Vice President, Equity and Community Health; Founder, Senior Advisor, and Faculty, The Disparities Solutions Center, Massachusetts General Hospital; Associate Professor of Medicine, Harvard Medical School; Co-Founder, Quality Interactions, Inc.

Networking

“I would not be where I am today without the Fellowship. The Fellowship prepared me to be a physician leader and policymaker. The fellows that I have gotten to know through the fellowship have been my most trusted friends and colleagues.”

Quyen Ngo-Metzger, MD, MPH – 1999
Professor, Department of Health Systems Science, Kaiser Permanente School of Medicine

“I came to Boston with my wife. No family. No familiarity with Boston. I knew what to expect from conversations with prior fellows, but was unsure how the fellowship would work out for me. However, in reflecting back on the year, I now have a large extended family in my cohort of fellows and in the Reede Scholars across the nation. I also now recognize how participating in this fellowship was undoubtedly the best way I could have spent this year.”

Darrell M. Gray, II, MD, MPH – 2014
Chief Health Equity Officer, Anthem, Inc.
Empowerment & Advocacy

“The fellowship taught me more than public health leadership; it showed me how to pursue my passion in life. I am a different, better, stronger, more complete person now because of this life-changing journey. I am ready to change the world!”

Chandak Ghosh, MD, MPH – 2000
Deputy Regional Administrator, Region 2, US Department of Health and Human Services, Health Resources and Services Administration

“Ivette Motola, MD, MPH, FACEP, FAAEM – 2005
Center Assistant Director, and Director, Division of Prehospital & Emergency Training, Gordon Center for Simulation and Innovation in Medical Education; Associate Professor of Emergency Medicine, University of Miami Miller School of Medicine

“Every day I use analytical skills, negotiating skills, research skills or networking skills, to name a few, that were acquired or strengthened by my fellowship experience.”

Octavio N. Martinez, Jr., MD, MPH, MBA, FAPA – 2002
Senior Associate Vice President, Division of Diversity and Community Engagement; Executive Director, Hogg Foundation for Mental Health; Clinical Professor, Steve Hicks School of Social Work; Professor of Psychiatry, Dell Medical School, The University of Texas at Austin

Skill Development

“Every day I use analytical skills, negotiating skills, research skills or networking skills, to name a few, that were acquired or strengthened by my fellowship experience.”

Senior Associate Vice President, Division of Diversity and Community Engagement; Executive Director, Hogg Foundation for Mental Health; Clinical Professor, Steve Hicks School of Social Work; Professor of Psychiatry, Dell Medical School, The University of Texas at Austin

Post-Fellowship Support

“The best thing about the Fellowship has been the people: my co-fellows, the alumni network, Dr. Joan Reede and her staff. It is a privilege to be part of a group of physicians whose common mission is to eliminate disparities, fight inequities and improve access and quality of care for our nation’s most vulnerable populations.”

Alice Hm Chen, MD, MPH – 2001
Chief Medical Officer, Covered California; Professor of Medicine, University of California, San Francisco

“Every day I use analytical skills, negotiating skills, research skills or networking skills, to name a few, that were acquired or strengthened by my fellowship experience.”

In particular, fellows report that the fellowship’s unique combination of coursework with site visits, leadership forums, and shadowing activities has proven to be an effective and unique way to bring together academic training with real world experience. The fellowship provides them “excellent opportunities” to network with national health leaders and exposes them to the most fundamental issues in health policy facing this country in the twenty-first century.
ANNUAL MEETING, REUNION OF ALUMNI, AND CURRENT FELLOWS

The annual meeting is held in the spring of each year for current and alumni fellows. The former fellows are expected to assess the relevance of the Fellowship program in terms of their professional experiences of the post-fellowship years, and the current fellows present their practicum projects at the meeting. This annual gathering also provides the opportunity for both current and former fellows to share professional and academic experiences. An alumni annual symposium is held in conjunction with the annual meeting.

Site Visits
The site visits enable fellows to obtain the first-hand experiences of problem-solving and policy-making processes in public health management and afford them an opportunity to network directly with key administrators from federal, state, local agencies and organizations (e.g. NIH, HRSA, FDA, OMH, CMS, PCORI in Washington, DC; Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Institute for Health System Innovation and Policy at Boston University).

Shadowing
The shadowing experience provides fellows a unique opportunity to interact more directly with nationally recognized public health and policy leaders and exposes fellows to the central issues and challenges encountered by public health leaders.

Career Development
Examples of topics covered under career-development include: Self-awareness; Cultivating a network and mentoring; Increasing visibility; Expanding career options; Documenting.
HOW TO APPLY

Deadlines

Application materials and instructions are available electronically.

Review Criteria & Selection
Applications will be reviewed for:

• Academic and training qualifications

• Commitment to a multicultural perspective in program planning, program implementation, and policy analysis

• Experience in projects devoted to increasing quality care and access and improving the capacity of the health care system to address health needs of minority, disadvantaged and vulnerable populations

• Evidence of leadership potential

The Fellowship Advisory Committee, comprised of distinguished faculty, health leaders, administrators, and the program director, will review applications, interview candidates, and select the fellows.

Applicants must complete applications to both the Commonwealth Fund Fellowship in Minority Health Policy at Harvard University and the Master of Public Health Program of the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health, including application for financial aid at the Chan School.

For those applicants who already have an MPH degree, applications to both the Commonwealth Fund Fellowship in Minority Health Policy at Harvard University and the Master of Public Administration Program of the Harvard Kennedy School (HKS) are required, including application for financial aid at HKS.

Acceptance to both graduate school and the Fellowship is necessary for program participation. Applicants not accepted to the Fellowship will still be eligible for admission to the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health or the Harvard Kennedy School.

Eligibility
• Physicians who have completed residency and who are either BE/BC. Additional experience beyond residency, such as chief residency, is preferred.

• Experience or interest in addressing and improving the health needs of minority, disadvantaged and vulnerable populations as well as in advancing system change in ways that improve the health for all populations, but with particular emphasis on vulnerable populations.

• Strong evidence of leadership experience or potential, especially as related to community efforts, quality improvement, transformation of health care delivery systems, and/or health policy.

• Intention to pursue a career in policy, public service, and/or academia.

• U.S. citizenship or U.S. permanent residency.
Joshua Budhu, MD

Joshua Budhu, MD is a Clinical Fellow in Neuro-Oncology at Massachusetts General Hospital, the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, and Brigham and Women's Hospital, Boston, MA. Prior to fellowship, he served as Chief Resident in Neurology at MGH/BWH/HMS, the largest neurology residency in the country. Throughout his education and work experiences, he has demonstrated a commitment to improving health equity. Dr. Budhu aspires to affect change at the policy level through advocacy and awareness and to improve diversity in clinical trials. He serves on several national committees including the Society for Neuro-Oncology’s Women and Diversity Clinical Trials Working Group and the Diversity and Mentorship division of the American Academy of Neurology’s Neuro-Oncology section. He co-authored op-eds for the Washington Post and Brookings Institution, denouncing the pseudoscientific concept “excited delirium”, which misappropriates medical terminology and is used to justify police brutality. He also writes articles for a wide audience about his experience as a physician in training and other health-related matters. Dr. Budhu received his medical degree from Morehouse School of Medicine in 2016.

Sarah-Bianca G. Dolisca, MD

Sarah-Bianca G. Dolisca, MD was most recently chief resident in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Brigham and Women’s Hospital and Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, MA. While in medical school, Dr. Dolisca received the Linnane Scholarship, a need-based prize for students who exhibit academic excellence and HMS community leadership. She aims to remain clinically active and fashion a career reducing disparities in reproductive health and perinatal outcomes. She served as co-chair of the Diversity and Inclusion Committee in the Ob-Gyn Department at Brigham and Women’s Hospital. Dr. Dolisca is currently a lead investigator on an IRB-approved funded study assessing the impact of web-based residency selection. Additionally she is examining the COVID-19 pandemic’s impact on timing of conception in a fertile and infertile patient population in another IRB-approved funded study. Dr. Dolisca received her medical degree from Harvard Medical School in 2017.

Tawakalitu Omosalewa (Salewa) Oseni, MD

Tawakalitu Omosalewa (Salewa) Oseni, MD is an assistant professor in surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, MA. Dr. Oseni is committed to eliminating healthcare disparities, especially in surgery through engagement with using health systems as a primary vehicle to drive change. She has developed extensive leadership experience through military service, achieving the rank of Commander. During her 15 year career in the U.S. Navy, Dr. Oseni received a Naval Achievement Medal as well as Naval Commendation Medals. She was elected Treasurer of the Association of Women Surgeons and she serves as Associate Director for the diversity, equity and inclusion committee in the Department of Surgery at MGH. Dr. Oseni received her medical degree from Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, OH in 2001. She completed her residency in general surgery at National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, MD in 2006, and a fellowship in surgical oncology at Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia, PA in 2009.
Kevin M. Simon, MD,

Kevin M. Simon, MD, is completing dual fellowships in Child & Adolescent Psychiatry and Addiction Medicine at Boston Children’s Hospital/Harvard Medical School. He is interested in the intersections of mental health, health services research, health policy/legislation, and leadership. He has published in notable journals, including Psychiatric Services, Health Affairs, and The New England Journal of Medicine. Dr. Simon is a recipient of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry - Physician Scientist (K12) Career Development Award, funded by NIDA. In 2020 – 2021, he was selected as a REACH (Recognizing and Eliminating disparities in Addiction through Culturally informed Healthcare) scholar through Yale School of Medicine funded by SAMHSA. Dr. Simon received his medical degree from Southern Illinois University School of Medicine, Springfield, IL in 2015, and completed his residency in adult psychiatry at Morehouse School of Medicine in 2018.

Nicole Stern, MD

Nicole Stern, MD was most recently an urgent care physician at Sansum Clinic, Inc. in Santa Barbara, CA. An enrolled member of the Mescalero Apache Tribe of New Mexico, Dr. Stern is the first member of her tribe to become a physician. She aspires to create a national clearinghouse or center of excellence and work within an academic institution which would allow for greater collaborations between medical institutions, national organizations and private foundations to achieve health equity for American Indians and Alaska Natives in this country. Dr. Stern was elected a Fellow of the American College of Physicians (ACP). She has extensive experience with the Association of American Indian Physicians (AAIP), having served as President-Elect, President, Immediate Past President, and Director-At-Large of the Board of Directors. As the liaison from AAIP to the Association of American Medical Colleges, Dr. Stern continues to work closely with the AAMC to collaborate on strategic plans and initiatives that emphasize the importance of including American Indians and Alaska Natives within the national conversation around workforce development and medical school diversity. Dr. Stern received her medical degree from the University of Arizona College of Medicine, Tucson in 1998. She completed her internal medicine residency at the University of Arizona College of Medicine, Tucson in 2001, and a fellowship in Primary Care Sports Medicine at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City in 2003.

Tracy Yang, MD, MPhil

Tracy Yang, MD, MPhil was most recently a resident physician at New York Presbyterian Morgan Stanley Children’s Hospital in New York, NY. During medical school, Dr. Yang conducted research with the goal of developing a family-level cardiovascular risk-reduction intervention among low-income African American parents and their adolescent children. She aspires to work as a practicing physician in an underserved urban hospital context while also running a non-profit or community-based organization that focuses on the social aspects of providing care. She is a member of Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society, and is the recipient of a Harry S. Truman Scholarship as well as a Rhodes Scholarship. Dr. Yang received a Master of Philosophy in Medical Anthropology from Oxford University in 2013, and her medical degree from Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in 2018.
Consider the fellowship if you are interested in policy and healthcare delivery systems dealing with vulnerable groups. This is a window of opportunity.”
